ARTCHIVE ANNOUNCES THE PRE-RELEASE OF THEIR WEBSITE, SLATED FOR OFFICIAL LAUNCH IN Q1

Their website will house NFTs of iconic works by world-renowned photographers like Ellen Von Unwerth, Makrus Klinko and more.

NEW YORK, NY – JAN. 1, 2022 – As the red carpet of NFTs, ARTCHIVE officially announces the pre-release of their website, which will house original works by partnering international artists and photographers as NFTs to be sold and traded within the metaverse.

Throughout the site, ARTCHIVE offers a 3D-tour gallery feature, allowing users to experience a “walk-through” simulation view of the NFTs available for purchase, such as iconic photographs of Tina Turner, Sophia Loren and Christina Aguilera. Consumers will also be able to learn more about and purchase the platform’s forthcoming native currency (ARTC) and access ARTCHIVE’s social media profiles.

The site is slated for full functionality in Q1 of 2022. For more information on their site, please visit <https://artchivenft.com/>.

ABOUT ARTCHIVE

The red carpet of NFTs, ARTCHIVE provides a platform for NFT-powered fine arts and photography designed for the community on the Solana blockchain. Through collaborations with established and influential artists and partners, ARTCHIVE brings forth a secured, user-friendly NFT marketplace, scalable blockchain and a paired native token (ARTC). The ARTCHIVE mission is to ignite a creator-centric platform that leverages blockchain in a powerful way.
